

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Two groups of diodes are connected to internal lines transmitting complementary signals, respectively, and positions of the centers of gravity of the groups of diodes are made coincident with each other. A circuit
5 capable of preventing the deviation of the characteristics of differential transistor pair caused by an antenna effect and highly immune against a substrate noise can be achieved.